Latest Developments

Palestinian refugee Nael Taha Mohamed Shahada, aged 26, survived an assassination attempt in AlMuzeireeb town, south of Syria, after unidentified gunmen opened fire at him in his leg. He was transferred to Daraa National Hospital for urgent treatment.

The gunmen also shot Mohamed Mahmoud AlGhanem, aged 40. No injuries were reported.

A couple of days earlier, AlMuzeireeb mayor Ahmad AlNabulsi, aged 55, survived an assassination attempt after anonymous gunmen shot him with gunfire. The mayor was evacuated to the Daraa National Hospital, before he was transferred to the Muwasat Hospital.

Over recent years, Palestinians taking shelter in AlMuzeireeb town have expressed deep concern over the security situation in the area after reports have emerged on increasing assassination attempts.

Activists have accused pro-government militias in Syria of assassinating opposition affiliates south of Syria in violation of the reconciliation accords struck between the two sides.

Meanwhile, Palestinian refugee Muayad Khaled AlHayek has been enduring a mysterious fate in Syrian state lock-ups, where he has been held for the fourth consecutive year.

Muayad was arrested on April 16, 2015, at the age of 14. Ex-prisoners said they last met him at the security branch in Hama.

Muayad's brother, Mohamed Khaled, died under torture in Syrian government prisons while his father has been forcibly disappeared in government penitentiaries since 2014.

In the meantime, Palestinian refugee from Syria Khaled Ra'fat Assaad, born in Syria's 2008 in Khan Eshieh Camp, won the best fiction award for 2018 granted by the Swedish News Agency.

Khaled's novel tackled the story of his migration to Sweden with his family in 2013, fleeing war-torn Syria, and the risks they had gone through in their mountainous journey.
