Latest Developments:

The Action Group for Palestinians of Syria's correspondent in Yarmouk Camp, confirmed the eruption of clashes between ISIS and armed Syrian opposition groups in the town of Yalda.

The clashes broke out at dawn on the first day of Eid al-Adha, in the Zein neighborhood and Orouba Street. Both ends used intermediate bombs and weapons, leading to the burning down of several civilian homes.

ISIS had taken control of Yarmouk Camp, early April 2015, after violent clashes against the Syrian opposition groups and with the support the Al-Nusra Front – now known as "Tahrir al-Sham".

On another note, Eid al-Adha has come and hundreds of Palestinian –Syrian displaced families that moved from the Khan Eshieh refugee camp located in rural Damascus, to the city of Idlib, continue to suffer from deteriorated living conditions, in the absence of any relief role by UNRWA.

The Action Group is continuously receiving several complaints from these displaced refugees, where they are bearing UNRWA responsibility for the deterioration of their conditions, and blaming them for not doing their duty towards them.

The displaced demanded that the agency responsible for Palestinian refugees in Syria commits to its duties towards the hundreds of women and children suffering from poor humanitarian conditions in the city.

Starting from Monday 28th November 2018, almost 2500 refugees have been forcibly displaced from Khan Eshieh camp for Palestinian refugees in rural Damascus, and sent to Idlib in Northern Syria. This comes after a reconciliation agreement was signed between the Syrian regime and the opposition in Khan al-Sheih and the surrounding areas.

In a similar context, more than 120 thousand Palestinian refugees in Syria are suffering from an emotional state that has tarnished their excitement for Eid al-Adha. The war led to the dispersal of the refugees across more than 20 countries. Europe alone has received more than 82 thousand Palestinian-Syrians. Barely have any families survived being displaced or dispersed around the world or across the Syrian towns and cities.

Statistics have shown that the Palestinian-Syrians have been distributed between Lebanon, Jordan, Egypt, Turkey, Libya and Sudan. With addition to Thailand, Malaysia, Sweden, Denmark, Germany, the UK, the Netherlands, Finland, Switzerland, France, Brazil, Chile, Canada and other countries.

UNRWA latest reports also show that more than 120,000 Palestinian refugees fled the country because of the war in Syria.

Neighboring Arab countries' embassies exacerbated the situation, by hindering the issuance of any entry visas to their countries, for any refugees coming from Europe or Syria, making family reunions even more difficult.
