Latest Developments

AGPS's correspondent confirmed that ISIS continues to terrorize teachers in Yarmouk camp. It forced them to attend a meeting a few days ago in Al-Safadi mosque, to warn the teachers of strict punishments if they remain teaching children according to the present curriculums, which it described as "infidel."

In a similar context, Yarmouk camp saw night clashes between ISIS and "Jaish Al-Islam" in "Dawar Palestine" axis and Al-Zein neighbourhood.

Our reporter said that these clashes have been breaking out on a daily basis, between ISIS and a number of factions affiliated to the armed Syrian opposition groups, without causing losses on either side.

For its part, Facebook pages close to the Syrian regime posted a statement made by “Saed Abd Al-Aal,” commander of the military wing in the Free Palestine Movement affiliated to the Syrian regime, that that a preliminary agreement between the Syrian government and representatives of the armed factions in “Al-Qadam” neighborhood, south of Damascus, urges the armed groups and their families that want to leave, to move in the northern direction towards Idlib and Jarabulus in the Aleppo suburbs. They are expected to leave on the upcoming Tuesday or Wednesday.

According to “Abd Al-Aal” the number of opposition fighters in Al-Qadam neighborhood has reached 600, without the ISIS fighter who were not included in the agreement. This comes amid the announcement of the armed Syrian opposition in Al-Qadam on the preparation for the implementation of a preliminary agreement between them and the Syrian regime to withdraw its members from the neighborhood.

In south Syria, Palestinians in Syria Relief and Development Association, in cooperation with “Shorouk Al-Shams” Organization, distributed financial aid to 50 Palestinian orphans in the towns of Al Muzeereeb, Tal Shehab, Al-Ajami, Jileen, Al-Muzairah and Deraa camp.
